

TREATY CONTEST BEFORE SENATE; PRESIDENT READY

JOHNSON, ASPIRANT FOR G. O. P. CHIEF, LEADS OPPOSITION

Democrats Propose That All Committee Sessions Be Open to Public

ORATORY PROSPECT

Documents in German-Japan Treaty Case are Asked in Resolution

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Issues of the peace treaty fight were expected to result in further committee action and several hours of debate in the senate chamber today.

The foreign relations committee which yesterday reported three resolutions asking the president for information about the Versailles negotiations had before it today a proposal by Senator Johnson, republican, of California, to request all available data bearing on the preparation of the treaty and particularly all proposed drafts of the league of nations.

Another proposal considered certain to arouse considerable discussion in the meeting was a motion by Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, ranking democratic member, that all future committee sessions be open to the public. It was thought possible that an attempt might also be made to secure some action on the question of consulting President Wilson in committee consideration of the treaty.

In the senate Chairman Lodge, of the committee, was prepared to call up for passage his resolution, reported yesterday, asking the president for a copy of an alleged secret treaty negotiated in 1918 between Japan and Germany. Senators Norris, republican, Nebraska, and Underwood, democrat, Alabama, also had announced that they probably would speak at length during the day on other features of the treaty fight.

Senator Lodge's resolution, as amended and reported from the foreign relations committee follows:

"Resolved, That the president be requested, if not incompatible with public interest, to send to the senate a copy of any treaty purporting to have been projected between Germany and Japan, referred to in the press dispatch hereto annexed, together with any information in regard to it which may be in possession of the state department or any further information concerning any negotiation between Japan and Germany during the progress of the war."

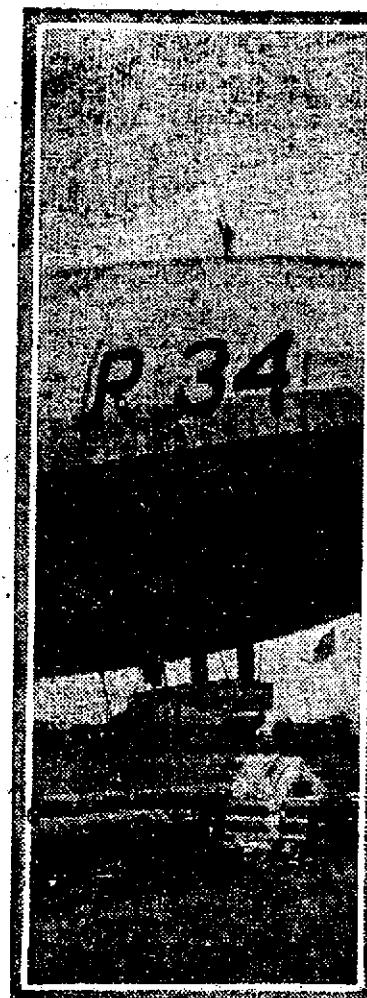

The press dispatch was dated June 20 at Budapest and outlined the alleged treaty as containing a guarantee that Japan would safeguard indirectly Germany's interests at the Versailles peace conference.

Emphasizing his offer to place himself at the disposal of the foreign relations committee considering the peace treaty, President Wilson sent word to the committee that he would respond morning, noon or night. He asked twenty-four hours' notice in

Structure at Massillon Burns Down With Total Loss of $50,000

BIG TOWER COLLAPSES

Great Damage is Done by Storm in Northwest Ohio District

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH) MASSILLON, O., July 15.—A fierce electrical storm which swept this section early last night cost one life, injured four persons, destroyed the Presbyterian church, blew down trees and wires and did much damage to crops through the surrounding country.

Lightning struck the church, a brick structure, and Fire Captain Theis was killed and Fireman George Miller and John Trapp and two volunteer firemen were injured while fighting the blaze which destroyed the edifice with an estimated loss of $50,000. They were crushed when the bell tower fell while they were on it battling with the flames. Captain Theis and his men climbed to the belfry tower with lines of hose despite the fact that the flames had reached the roof and were licking at the base of the tower. The flames continued to gain headway, however, and the fire fighters were about to abandon their post when the entire tower collapsed, burying the firemen in the debris. Rescuers succeeded in dragging the men out before the flames reached them. All were rushed to a hospital where they died early this morning. The others were not seriously injured.

DAYTON, O., July 15.—Two more fatalities were listed at the McCook flying field when Captain William S. Jones, 25, assigned to the test flight department, and George Duzane, 30, a mechanician at the field, died as the result of injuries received when a new type Curtiss biplane in which they were riding crashed to the earth shortly before noon. Captain Jones lived in New Richmond, Ind. Duzane's immediate relatives live in Chicago. The ship was on its maiden trip and was about 200 feet above the ground when it went into a nose dive and dropped to the ground.

CLEVELAND, O., July 15.—High winds and a terrific downpour of rain continued all last night and early today, did thousands of dollars damage to crops and houses in and about Cuyahoga and adjoining counties. The thunderstorm, though severe in Cleveland, was heaviest in the western townships of the county and near Elyria, where wheat and oats fields were almost completely stripped of their grain. Telephone and telegraph wires were swept down by the force of the storm.

YOUNGSTOWN, July 15.—The first step toward a settlement of the strike of the telephone electricians in progress for three weeks and the telephone operators' walkout called last Friday, was taken today when Mayor A. W. Craven called a meeting of representatives of both unions and the telephone company. The electrical workers had voted to call out all inside electricians on Friday if no action was taken tying up street cars, industries and illumination. The conference will be held today. Strikebreakers have been maintaining nearly normal telephone service.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 15.—Normal telephone service was had in Louisville today for the first time since 400 employees of the Cumberland and Home Telephone company struck two weeks ago for higher wages. The two companies, which operate the only telephone service in the city, are said to have imported enough operators and linemen to resume day service. Company officials look for an early end to the strike.

ELECTRIC RAILWAYS ASSERT REVENUES CRIPPLE SERVICE

Federal Commission Receives Statement From Representative of Lines

SITUATION SERIOUS

New Conception of Relations With Public Must Be Established

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH) WASHINGTON, July 15.—Under existing conditions and with revenue they are now receiving, the electric railway can not continue to perform the functions expected of them, John H. Pardee, president of the American Electric association, today told the Federal Electric Railways commission. The commission was appointed by President Wilson to investigate the situation confronting the local transportation interests throughout the country.

"It is no longer a question of what return shall be allowed to the owners of the railways," Mr. Pardee said.

"It is a question as to what service, if any, shall be rendered the public."

Asserting it was not the purpose of the railways' representatives to "make a case" before the commission, Mr. Pardee said they appeared to give the facts in the situation in the hope a solution might be found satisfactory to the public, employees and owners alike, interested as they all were in maintaining good service at reasonable cost.

Outstanding phases of the situation demanding attention, he continued, are the "absolutely uneconomic and unsatisfactory" basis upon which the relations between the public and the electric railways have rested since the inauguration of the enterprise, and placing of many individual burdens upon companies by the government as war exigencies without any sort of relief. Included in the war program, to which Mr. Pardee said the electric railways readily subscribed, were the raising of employees' wages as much as 100 per cent, the control of the prices and delivery of coal, the fixing of prices of other commodities and, in many cases, the prescribing of service to be given.

"Co-operation of the public is necessary to the stabilizing of electric railway conditions," Mr. Pardee said. "There must be impressed upon the public a new conception of the relations between the communities and the public utilities, which serve them; they must be shown that the antagonism, which has heretofore prevailed, is disastrous to both interests, and that only when the public and the companies work together to secure efficiency and economy in operation can the desired service be furnished at a reasonable price.

A second fundamental idea is that in order to provide through the employment of private capital proper transportation facilities for cities and for rural districts, the basis of compensation must be so determined as to provide an assured return and a rate of fare so flexible as to readily and automatically adjust itself to the cost of providing the service."

spirit in which your government has given assurance and happy to note it as fresh proof of the close ties that unite the two allied powers. I take pleasure in stating that the Japanese government on its part is fully prepared to support in the same spirit the claims which may be put forward at the peace conference in regard to the German possessions in the islands south of the equator."

"While the Japanese government was waiting for a reply from the British government it proceeded also to negotiate with the other allied governments. Its message to the French ambassador at Tokyo was signed by the Japanese foreign minister and was as follows:

"The Imperial Japanese government proposes to demand from Germany at the time of the peace negotiations the surrender of the territorial rights and special interests Germany possessed before the war in Shantung and the islands situated north of the equator in the Pacific ocean."

"The Imperial Japanese government confidently hopes the government of the French Republic, realizing the legitimacy of these demands, will give assurance that, her case being proved, Japan may count upon its full support in this question."

"It goes without saying that reparation for damages caused to the life and property of the Japanese people by the unjustifiable attacks of the enemy, as well as other conditions of peace of a character common to all the entente powers, are entirely outside the consideration of the present question."

"A few days later the French ambassador replied to the Japanese foreign office as follows:

"The government of the French Republic is disposed to give the Japanese government its accord in regulating at the time of the peace negotiations questions vital to Japan concerning Shantung and the German Islands in the Pacific north of the equator. It also agrees to support the demands of the Imperial Japanese government for the surrender of the rights Germany possessed before the war in this Chinese province and these islands."

"Upon receipt of this communication the foreign minister of Japan, on behalf of Japan, promised compliance with the request of the French government contained in this letter. Similar negotiations were entered into with similar results, with Italy, although the negotiations with Italy took place in Rome and not in Tokyo. Similar agreement also was made with Russia, and it must be remembered that at that time Russia was still in the war and it was anticipated that at the close of the war she would have a place at the peace table."

"It is thus clearly disclosed that while those leading governments of the world were inducing China to get into the war in order that they might secure her assistance and particularly that they might be able to get possession of the German ships interned in China's harbors, they were secretly plotting among themselves as to her destruction as soon as she had complied with their wishes and the war was over. In all the annals of history, I do not believe there is recorded an instance of a more disgraceful and dishonorable agreement to carve up the territories not of an enemy, but of an allied friend."

Still another will say with a trenchant pen, grab some paper wrinkles his brow, and then—reels off a lot of bally rot, about what should be and what should not. Surely the grocer man is tried enough, with H. C. L. profiteers controlling his costs for stuff. Let him have one afternoon free, he'll serve us better—you and me on Suburban Day in town. On Wednesday then, both boss and clerk, keep busy all day long with steady work. On Thursday afternoons they shut their doors, and arrange to perform their own little chores. For isn't a grocer a human being too?

You say he soaks me a double price, for everything I buy that's good and nice?" Well, so does everybody else, my dear; it's the fellow higher up who's got to fear. So, go-a-gunning if you will, but see that the bird you shoot to kill, is the guy that's got the key that unlocks the market for you and me.

Last Wednesday one of the Suburban day shoppers from out Sugar Creek way, called at one of the electrical supply houses—the Wentworth-Dean Co.—looked over the stock of fuses, and after a test of a few, selected one and carried it off.

"What the Sam Hill" observed an interested bystander "does that guy want with an electric fan in the country?"

"That's what I thought too" remarked the salesmen "until I learned that the gentleman had been fitting his house with electrics for the past ten years or more, and he lives long distance from any service plant so that he makes his own juice."

When Store Job Still a Mystery

BIG HOME SHOWS STARTED 30 YEARS AGO BY TWO BOYS

There is a more of encouragement to every young boy who reads this story. No matter how poor and hand-draped you may be. A little over 30 years ago there lived in the little city of South Bend, Ind., two small boys who were even denied an ordinary common school education. The only sacrifice the loss of their father when they were mere tots and they had hardly put on their first pair of kiss-tipped mous before they were out hustling to provide for a widowed mother and three young sisters. Pluck and persistence won out. The boys sold newspapers, shined shoes and did all sorts of menial tasks during the day time. At night they studied the signs painted on houses and tacked on street corners. The struggle was bitter at their tenement for the not only had to provide for themselves but others as well.

One day they attended the annual county fair and saw for their first time a merry-go-round. They liked it fine and spent a good portion of their savings enjoying the ever delightful ride for the kids. When the last home they began to ponder and think. They had always been very close with their money. What was it that caused them to spend it? The merry-go-round. They came to the conclusion that if the merry-go-round would cause any one as poor as themselves to spend their money that it might be a bonanza. Their first real savings were invested in a broken-down discarded merry-go-round which they repaired. They handled it overland and played here and there. It proved a money-maker from the start.

Soon they added a little circus to their outfit and then they hired a six-piece band which had to play nearly one season before enough money could be got together to purchase red uniforms. The outfit grew and prospered. How much so may be realized when you see the World at Home Shows when it comes next week under the auspices of the United Commercial Travellers. With the show will be the owners, Harry R. Polack and Irving J. Polack. Today they have nearly three hundred people working on them. They own outright a score or more shows in addition to two of the largest riding devices in the world.

THE RAMBLER'S COLUMN

The old song said "And he Rambled all Around."

Howdya like to buy the lot on which the Orpheum Theatre now stands for less than a $10 bill?

Well, don't laugh, it has been done!

And some fellows insist that what has been done once can be done again but you and I won't agree on that statement, not in this instance.

N. W. Cunningham, the widely known banker and man of affairs of Bluffton, tells the story of the transaction in this manner:

Mr. Cunningham's uncle was a regular down Eastern Yankee, a trader from tradesville and is known to many that he has one of the pioneers of Lima. He and his family connections owned much of the land west of Main street, both north and south of the river.

One of N. W. Cunningham's uncles was a trader like his father and made a trade one day with a fellow and felt he was "skinned." He came home and made the announcement that he was "going to lay off" the man who put over something on him in a deal, and he did so.

A few weeks afterwards he walked in one day and with great glee said to his father:

Well, father, I got him today. I traded him a lot for this rifle and after I shone it up a little I know I can get $10 in money for it."

Cunningham was tickled to death to trade off the lot on which the Orpheum now stands for the rifle.

And if you offered W. L. Russell, who owns the lot now $10 an inch for it he'd laugh. It's worth a lot more money than that, even

The telephones at the Times office kept up a merry jingle early Saturday morning. Everyone wanted to know if a street car strike was on.

Colonel Lewis, who is the early bird arrival in the Times editorial room every morning because he likes to get up with the birds and start the day's work in the cool of the morning, didn't get much done save answering the calls.

The reason, it was discovered later, was that someone overslept up at the car barns and the carmen couldn't take out their cars until they had a clearing order. They were 45 minutes late at the square.

A lot of people thought there was a street car strike called without notifying the public and there was much growling at the thought of walking to work.

Shows, too, how quickly rumor spreads.

Start something like that and it will get all over the city in so few minutes that you believe it impossible.

They are telling a pretty good story on a Lima young man, who is employed in a well known retail store. He and some friends attended the Methodist Centenary at Columbus last week.

He was going through the Chinese building and one of the attendants was displaying the various idols.

"Here" said he, "is the household idol. He reports to heaven regularly the doings of all members of the household. To placate him they seal his mouth with sweets, so that he will say only sweet things about them."

Humorously, if irreverently, the Lima young man exclaimed, "And they shoot men like Lincoln."

"Oh, no," replied the attendant, disturbed over the comment. "They didn't shoot Lincoln."

Taking Prompt Action

THE EFFORT BEING MADE by the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Automobile Club and the Board of County Commissioners to have the directors of the Lincoln Highway Association rescind their action cutting off Lima from the now-famous route, is a most commendable one.

It would seem that the Highway officials would not change their route, after having the many cities and counties along the route go to considerable expense and trouble to aid in the work of making a trans-continental highway a possibility.

It looks very much as if the directors had taken snap judgement on Lima. Their action is ill-timed. While the length of the road may be shortened a little bit, it is a sure thing that the roads will never be as good as the old route, which will eventually be all placed in first class condition.

Lima is going to make a vigorous effort to be left on the route. That is the way to let the directors know that they have made a mistake, one they may rectify now before it is too late.

All Trains Are Crowded

ALL OF THE TRAINS on all the railroads of this country seem to be crowded. One has difficulty in finding a seat or a berth on any road, at any hour of the day or night, and the stations are thronged with travelers at all times. It is as if there were a circus at every station one passes on the road.

This immense national traffic is an evidence of the great prosperity of the land. The people have money to pay their traveling expenses, they are well enough off in this world's goods to go upon a visit, or they have business affairs of such importance as to call them to other communities. When the country is prostrate, when times are dull, there is little traveling upon the roads.

Nor has travel ever been more expensive than at this time. Hotel accommodations, taxicab service, meals at restaurants—everything that is necessary in traveling is more expensive than ever before. But it does not stop people from going and coming indeed, it seems that the more it costs, the more people travel, which would not be the case if it were not for the great prosperity of the country.

Queer Kind of Support

OHIO, overwhelmingly favoring the league of nations, is in a peculiar position. It is represented in Congress by a delegation largely Republican. The Ohio Republican congressmen are adhering to the party lines and opposing the league at every possible point. There are eight Democratic Congressmen in the Ohio delegation and it is said that they are all enthusiastically in favor of the league. They are truly representing the sentiment and the thought of their constituents. Ohio has two senators, one a Republican and the other a Democrat. The Republican in the face of the sentiment of his state would tear the league covenant to pieces as though it were a scrap of paper. The delegation from Ohio on the Republican side of the house was elected last fall on their promises to support the President in his aim to make the world safe for Democracy. Have they done it; are they doing it? They have not supported the President for a single moment and have not let a single opportunity pass to embarrass, harass, and frustrate him at every turn. Surely there is a day of reckoning coming to those who misrepresent the people.

The People Have Ratified

SINCE THERE REMAIN in the United States Senate and elsewhere some Republicans who feign to scorn assertions that a vast majority of the American people want immediate and unconditional ratification of the League of Nations, it may be both interesting and instructive to appraise sentiment in the ranks of the Republican party.

It is not unfair or ungenerous to say that the practical Mr. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, could not hesitate for an instant to make the League a partisan issue if he felt the Republicans as a whole would second him.

But Mr. Taft, who is unquestionably the chief figure in the Republican party, has denounced every attempt to make the League anything but a question of America's obligation to obtain and insure peace. Former Attorney-General Wickersham and former Senator Burton take the same position. The roster of Republicans who share their views contains many names equally illustrious.

Republican newspapers of great influence and wide circulation are fighting for the League and condemning those who would entangle it with partisan politics.

The Republicans of the Senate, where most of the objections to the League are heard, are by no means a unit in their attitude toward the League. Senators Kenyon, McCumber and McNary are counted among the League supporters. Other Republican Senators who are among its opponents can come to no agreement as to the basis of their opposition.

Lastly, the Republican National Committee itself is a composite of factions on the big question. While Mr. Hays is saying it is not a partisan issue, the publications for whose dissemination his organization is paying is fighting the League with propaganda of distinct Republican flavor and obviously to gain votes against it.

No, the League is not a partisan matter. The American people have heard and heeded President Wilson's request that it be kept out of politics. The League has already been ratified by the people. It now remains for the Senate to give formal expression to that ratification.

HAPPY THOUGHT: The thermometer has certainly an affinity for the 100 mark.

Since prohibition has come in they have taken to christening ships with ginger ale. At that a whole lot of schooners are being loaded every day right in Lima with nothing stronger than bevo.

An exchange says that prices are beginning to fall, but if it is true, we haven't heard of any of them being shattered here in Lima.

GOOD EVENING—Many a man who thinks he is roaring like a lion is merely braying like an ass. Some Senators for instance.

The Times' Family Doctor

WHY YOU SHOULD NEVER TAKE "DOPE" EVEN FOR "EXPERIENCE"

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (John Hopkins University)

Native-born Americans are peculiarly addicted to drugs. The habit is begun in various ways, often by foolish boasts of "I'll try anything once." A noted author has been an opium victim for ten years, treated and cured in sanatoria, sores, or tissues. He thought he would "just try hitting the pipe, to see how smog-opium tasted." At the time three friends warned him not to try it. Like many others, he foolishly thought that a strong will could prevent the habit.

The number of victims of the drug habit in the United States is estimated at not less than 1,500,000. There is no part of the country without them and no state where the evil has not been a growing problem. Those in the clutches of the evil are found sometimes 20 miles back from the railroad as well as in the most thickly populated centres. One explanation given as to why the practice has spread so far among native-born Americans is that it is a defect of the great virtue of the American type—its abounding energy which has led to a speeding-up of the national life until the intensification has resulted in a demand for some form of relief from over-stretched minds, some excitement that would maintain a false stimulation. The experience of the war shows that the over-stimulation and over-excitement resulted in an increase in the use of drugs. In England it was necessary to make the controlling regulations stricter. The war-period also showed many additions to Canada's number of drug victims.

Some Strange Facts
General hospitals avoid drug patients, and special hospitals are inadequate. In every large community deaths of some of the victims would likely result unless there were an organized system of treatment. The cocaine habit can be stopped short and broken with comparative ease, but not so with morphine and heroin. When these are abruptly taken away from a user physical collapse, with foaming at the mouth and dangerous internal disorders usually follow. A rational arrangement for cure and treatment is thus considered necessary before strict enforcement of the law can be safely carried out on a wide scale. This is deemed all the more important on account of the fraud connected with the many so-called "cures."

Investigators at Washington found one man who had taken thirty different "cures." There is no standardized cure for the opium habit; in fact, medical men are in doubt as to the best way to proceed. Several different methods are in use, but not so with morphine and heroin. When these are abruptly taken away from a user physical collapse, with foaming at the mouth and dangerous internal disorders usually follow. A rational arrangement for cure and treatment is thus considered necessary before strict enforcement of the law can be safely carried out on a wide scale. This is deemed all the more important on account of the fraud connected with the many so-called "cures."

He cannot always undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. Where the subject is not of general interest letters will be answered personally, if a stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr. L. K. Hirshberg, in care of this office.

Drug Soon Conquers
Men are frequently able to quit drinking by their will power, but, according to expert opinion, there are few instances where an inveterate user of opium has been able by the exertion of the will to stop permanently. Federal investigators find that these two habits, contrary to popular impression, rarely hold of the same person. The one seems to exclude the other. The person who tries to mix them usually passes over wholly to the drug evil and to a greater subjection with rapid physical deterioration.

One reason for this is that the drug victim will not eat much; the drug seems to satisfy him, while a drunkard often retains a good appetite, and this helps to keep him from going to pieces physically. When the two habits meet it is generally the drug that replaces drink.

Morphine given with good intentions to relieve pain often leads to slavery to opium.

"In general," says a member of the bureau, "use of drugs is legitimate for relieving pain where this cannot be done by treating the cause, as in the case of cancer or the last stages of consumption, or in surgical operations. But where symptoms are treated as the physicians say, instead of finding out what the real trouble is, as in terms of headache, the use of drugs to quiet pain is limited by the law: just what is the border line a jury must decide, but it is plainly against the law to 'shoot the dope,' as the saying is, just to keep down pain that can be assuaged in another way."

Short Stories of the Buckeye State

ROCKEFELLER IS 80

Last Wednesday John D. Rockefeller, under whose direction the Standard Oil Co. was developed into such proportions and strength as to make it difficult for the government to control, completed his 80th year. Though not a native of Ohio, he received his principal education and his start in business in this state so that he is a proper subject for reference in this department.

He was born at Richford, Tioga county, New York, July 9, 1839, when John D. was in his 15th year, his father, William A. Rockefeller, moved to Cleveland. His people were a fairly well to do farmer family. He entered the Cleveland high school and in the summer of 1855 took a course in a business college. Then he secured a position as clerk in a commission house at $3 per week and at the end of two years was the company's cashier and bookkeeper. By 1858 he had saved from earnings $1000 and borrowing another thousand from his father, he formed a partnership with Morris Clark in the produce business.

In 1859 the first oil well was brought in at Titusville, Pa., and the following year with his partner, Clark, and a man named Andrews he organized a company to engage in refining oil at Cleveland. In that enterprise Rockefeller invested $4000.

It was his first step in the oil business.

They walked slowly around a section of the battle field at Chateau-Thierry and occasionally read the name on the little crosses on the graves. All of a sudden Jane called to Jack and the rest of them to come quick, and when they arrived at her side they found that she had accidentally come upon the grave of her Uncle George. It surely was he, too, because there was his name, his company and regiment and division right on the cross. Jack of course couldn't remember all those things about him, but Captain Brave had made a special note of them when the children's mother had told him of Uncle George.

"Oh, I do wish mother and father were here, too, to see where Uncle George is buried," said Jane.

"I am afraid they couldn't come

OUR BED-TIME STORY

FOR TINY TIMES-DEMOCRAT FOLKS

Before Captain Brave showed very well," said Ladydear, "but we them around the battle field at Chateau-Thierry he told them how do lots of things that will make them glad that we found his grave." When she suggested that they spend the rest of the day getting flowers and planting them around Uncle George's grave, the children of course agreed and said they'd be glad to help her.

"I wish there was some way we could show mother and father what we have done when we're through and what the grave looks like," said Jack.

"Well, that is a simple matter," said Captain Brave. "When we get everything shipshape I will get the camera out of the airplane and we will take a picture of it."

This was the first thing the children knew about Captain Brave having a camera. It was just another one of the hundreds of the surprises they had had, and were to have, on the outside of the letter.

The rest of the day was a busy one for the children, what with carrying flowers and digging up the dirt and cleaning up the ground around the grave.

They planted a little evergreen tree at the head of the grave and from one of the hundreds of places in the airplane where he had things stored, Captain Brave unearthed a little silk flag. The flowers planted on the grave were of many kinds and so selected that some of them would be blooming all summer, and a few of the more hardy ones would hold their heads up through the cold weather. They bought enough shrubs to make a little fence all around the mound.

When everything was completed, Captain Brave took several pictures of the grave. The children were awfully tired that night, but it was a happy tiredness, because they knew they had done something to make mother and father happy and to show their love for them and for Uncle George.

MILITANT PASTOR OPENS AIRDROME

Hopes to Attract Attention of Automobilists Even if They Do Not Stop

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 15.—Gassed by the Germans and wounded by shrapnel in the Argonne forest while serving as a Y. M. C. A. secretary, Rev. Robert Lee Payne, militant pastor of the Oakdale Baptist church, Louisville, has signaled his return home by instituting an airdrome for church services, where he hopes to implant in passersby, especially automobilists who use the fine parkway drive, the germ of church attendance. •

"Even though people pass by and do not stop, they cannot help but notice" he announced in discussing the motor traffic which streams by while he preaches in the rustic pulpit. "That, at least, will give a thought of God and thereby do some good," was his logic.

The airdrome, erected by Rev. Mr. Payne with the assistance of some members of his congregation, is located on the lawn in front of his church, the second he has been instrumental in building since he took charge of the congregation three years ago. As a young man, Rev. Mr. Payne was a bartender. After his conversion he joined a Baptist church in Louisville. So seriously did he take his new estate that he determined to dedicate the remainder of his life to his Creator, and with $2 in his possession he entered William Jewel college at Liberty, Missouri. Rich in energy, he maintained himself by doing odd jobs and finally was graduated.

Ordained a minister, he selected as a field of labor Oklahoma, where he built a number of tabernacles and churches, himself contributing a man's labor. Three years ago he came to the Oakdale church. He found it in disrepair and, calling for volunteers, within five days had erected a tabernacle. His congregation outgrew the structure and recently called for funds for a new church with which the basement and temporary superstructure has been erected awaiting the collection of additional funds for a permanent edifice.

UNCLE SAM POINTS TO OHIO WITH PRIDE

Another War Savings Stamp
Record Made Last Month.

Columbus, O.—(Special)—Ohio again is being pointed out to the nation by Uncle Sam for its remarkable War Savings Stamp record. Reports just compiled at Washington for last month show that Ohio has sold double the amount of War Savings Stamps of any other state. Illinois was second, with Pennsylvania third and Texas fourth.

Ohio during the first five months of the year has sold 18 per cent of the total sales of War Savings Stamps in the nation; since the War Stamp Campaign, Jan. 1, 1918, Ohio has sold 9.7 per cent of the total sales of the nation. Ohio's quota for this period was only 5 per cent.

Last month Ohio sold more stamps than New York and Pennsylvania together, and twice as many as all the New England states combined.

Colonel William N. Hensley

When the British dirigible R-34 was circling over New York City following its midnight start on the return trip to Scotland, a woman with a ten-months-old babe sleeping in her arms was scanning the skies from the roof of a hotel. She was Mrs. Hensley, wife of Colonel William N. Hensley, U. S. A., who was on board as official American observer. Friends say that although Mrs. Hensley is the best of mothers and it was then after one o'clock in the morning, she shook the bundle nesting in her arms and, pointing, said: There's daddy."

GOT AN EAR-FULL.

A groom was brought into the dining room to help the butler. The groom was willing enough, but not quite up to the vagaries of society. He asked a deaf old lady if she'd have any peas and she put her big half-mouthed trumpet up to her ear to hear him.

"Heavens," said the groom to himself, "this is a new one on me, but if she wants them that way, I'd better let her have them."

And down the ear trumpet went a generous spoonful of peas.—Philadelphia North American.

Riot Killings

Condemned by Toledo Coroner

TOLEDO, O., July 15.—The action of soldier police in shooting and killing two persons during the recent rioting near the Willys-Overland plant was held unjustifiable in a report made today by Coroner Hartung. He recommends that a grand jury investigate the affair.

Two men were killed and others were wounded when a soldier in uniform ran into a fire engine house and said a mob was menacing him. A detachment of soldier police on duty in connection with the Overland labor trouble responded and fired into the crowd.

MAY CALL SOLONS TO AID KEEPING STATE EMPLOYEES

COLUMBUS, O., July 15.—Demands of state employees for salary increases and the possibility of serious labor troubles in the various state departments unless such demands are granted, may necessitate the convening of the legislature in extra session before December 1, state officials intimated today. Governor Cox was in conference with department heads on the subject today.

as Ewing, state civil service commissioner, was in conference with Governor Cox today over what he terms an alarming situation in the various state departments, caused by failure of the last general assembly to increase salaries.

Many state employees, he told the governor, are quitting state positions for other work paying more money. Mr. Ewing stated that it is only with great difficulty that enough employees are being obtained at present salaries to fill vacancies.

Kenneth McKinley, secretary to the commission, indicated today that unless better salaries are assured clerks and other state employees, the standard of service will have to be reduced to get enough employees to keep the departments running.

AT THE ROYAL

Coming at the Royal for two days only, Wednesday and Thursday of this week, will be shown the only pictures of the late Willard Dempsey Fourth Fight Pictures which have been passed by the Censor Board and which show some of the most interesting features of the arena, celebrities, as well as former champs, as well as many of the positions held by Willard and Dempsey during their fight. Dempsey was very well pleased with these pictures and claimed they prove several of his contentions.

But let it not be expected that these are Motion pictures—for they are not. The Censor Board has put the taboo on Motion Pictures of this fight; but they have consented to slides being shown of these different blows which were struck by the fighters during their mill. So this will be the nearest we will have to the fight pictures, so none will miss seeing the fight pictures.

this only chance to see the Willard-Dempsey Fight Pictures. A lecture given with the pictures make this more clear to those who did not brush up thoroughly on the big fight. So everyone go and see the battle. Last week we saw Willard in the seven-reeler "The Challenge of Chance." This week we see the genuine illustrated slides of the fight itself. The Censor Board claims that the way they are presented will not only enable everyone to see how the blows were struck, but will be more presentable for children and ladies, than the motion pictures would have been.

PRETTY WEDDING.

An elaborate wedding of Tuesday morning was that of Miss Helen Marie Haage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Haage, of North Cole street, and Dr. Emmett L. Thomas, whose home is in Galipolis. The ceremony was performed at the First Reformed church, the Rev. Hoerneman officiating. At the church pink roses and palms were used in artistically decorating the altar. Little Ruth Haage and Joe Held carrying flower baskets preceded the wedding party, and scattered flowers down the center aisle.

The bride entered on the arm of her father. She was daintily clad in white georgette, with hat to match, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Immediately in her wake came the bridesmaid, Miss Myrtle Haage, her sister, very attractive in pale blue georgette and wearing a corsage of pink rosebuds.

They were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Orin Thomas, his brother, and the Rev. Hoerneman. Before the altar banked with palms and pink roses the marriage vows were taken.

The immediate families then went to the home of the bride's parents, on North Cole street, where a marvelous wedding breakfast was served. Here again the pink roses were used in abundance, while place cards and all the other accessories of the breakfast were in pink and white.

The wedding of the morning was a happy culmination of a pretty romance which had its origin when Mrs. Thomas was in training in a hospital in Cleveland and Dr. Thomas was then serving his internship at the same hospital. They became acquainted in a professional way, and then after Mrs. Thomas had become a graduate nurse and Dr. Thomas was a practicing physician they came to know each other better and their friendship deepened to love.

Following the ceremony the bridal couple left for their own home, which has been prepared in Cleveland, where the bridegroom has a wide practice.

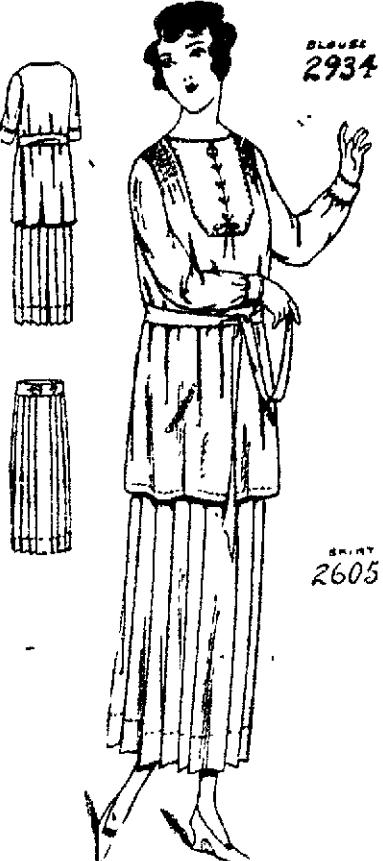

F. T. Ramsdale, of State street, has returned home after visiting with friends and relatives in the east for the past several weeks.

Miss Catherine Galvin, of West North street, is expecting as her guest on Wednesday, Miss Dorothy Zeigler, of Marshall, Ill.

Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Neville and sons, Carl and Wesley, Dr. and Mrs. T. R. Thomas and son, Lester, left Tuesday morning for an extended motor trip, their destination being the Maine woods, where they will enjoy a six weeks' fishing trip.

A merry group of young people just returned from a pleasant two weeks at Lake Ridge is composed of Miss Geraldine Kah, Miss Helen Baughman, Morris Thomas and Clair Stump, chaperoned by Mrs. Fred Rath.

LAWN FETE.

The annual parish lawn fete of St. Rose church will be held Thursday evening, July 17, on the school yard, under the auspices of the St. Rose Altar society. Ice cream and cake will be served, and in addition there will be various kinds of refreshment stands. A reception committee has been appointed to meet all strangers who have become members of the parish within the past year.

Later in the evening dancing will be enjoyed in the high school auditorium, an orchestra having been engaged to furnish the music. It is expected that several thousand persons will be in attendance, as the lawn fete is always the largest social event of the season for St. Rose church, and is held especially that newcomers may become acquainted and friendships renewed.

Discover drug which loosens sore, touchy corns so they lift out

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told to use a drug called freezeone, which the moment a few drops are applied to the surrounding tissue or skin, it is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freezeone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You are further warned that cutting at a corn is a suicidal habit.

Condensed Classic Series

The Lima Times' Fascinating Fiction Feature

TODAY—"The Prisoner of Zenda," by Anthony Hope.
WEDNESDAY—"The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," by Robert Louis Stevenson.

HOPE

Anthony Hope, known outside the world of books as Sir Anthony Hope Hawkins, was born in London, February 9, 1863, the son of a clergyman. He married an American woman. It is to be hoped he may have many more children of the brain to follow in the footsteps of "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "The Dolly Dialogues."

He was educated at Marlborough, and Balliol college, Oxford, where he took honors in letters and was president of the Oxford Union, which means that he was already a man of mark in his undergraduate days. By way of a profession he became a barrister of the Middle Temple in 1887. But if the pursuit of the law interferes with the production of a thrilling tale, may he never have a case to prepare.

His first book was "The Prisoner of Zenda," which has probably remained his best known one. It had a large hearing when turned to the stage, and the public demanded a sequel, which came in "Rupert of Hentzau." After Zenda quickly followed "The Dolly Dialogues," which, by their easy and debonair grace, inevitably suggest Lawrence Sterne.

ANTHONY HOPE, BORN 1863.
His books have been numerous, as "The King's Mirror" and "Tristan of Blein," and he has written plays as well, as "The Adventure of Lady Ursula." A touch of gaiety and precision lend distinction to his prose; has an unusual power of interesting his readers in his personages and their doings.

THE PRISONER OR ZENDA

By ANTHONY HOPE

Condensation by Prof William Fenwick Harris
Ruritania was not in England, or world, however, could not permit the quarrel between Duke Michael and Rudolf Rassendyll could not have gone on with the remarkable incidents which marked it, without more public notice being directed toward it. It is perhaps as strange a thing as has ever been in the history of a country that the King's brother and the King's personator, in a time of profound peace, near a placid, undisturbed country town, under semblance of amity, should wage a desperate war for the person and life of the King.

Yet such was the struggle between Black Michael and Rudolf Rassendyll, both of the royal house of Elphberg, but of very different antecedents. The one was well known to the royal palace at Strelsau; the other was at home at No. 305 Park Lane, London, West. The kinship between the two was quite an accident, dating from the year 1733, when a tasting young prince, later known to fame as Rudolf the Third of Ruritania, paid a visit to London. There he was courteously entertained and was a great favorite with the ladies, especially Amelia, Countess of Burleson, and Baroness Rassendyll. In the end the prince left England rather hastily under cloud, but not before he had fought a somewhat sanguinary duel with Countess Amelia's husband. In the years since there have appeared at intervals in the family of the Rassendylls certain sons who have been marked by the long, sharp, straight nose and the dark red hair of the royal house of Ruritania.

The years pass, many of them, and another Rudolf of Elphberg is about to be crowned King of Ruritania. The same nose, the same red hair, distinguish him. The loyal half of the population of Ruritania could not sleep at night until the coronation was safely over. For the late King had left another son, by a second and morganatic marriage, Black Michael, Duke of Strelsau and Lord of Zenda. Though Michael bore none of the marks of the Elphbergs, he had been his father's favorite, and he cast a longing eye on the throne; all the cut-throats and blackguards of Ruritania seconded his desire and the dark red hair of the royal house of Ruritania.

Curious that young Rudolf Rassendyll should be moved by an idle curiosity to witness the coronation of Rudolph of Ruritania; still more curious that he, too, should bear the familiar nose, the same red hair. So thought Colonel Sapt, aide to the King, and Fritz von Tarlemehm, his close friend, as they came upon the young Englishman in the forest of Zenda, making his way afoot to Strelsau. So, too, thought the King, when he appeared a moment later.

But scandals of the past can no more be concealed in Ruritania than in England. As young Rassendyll later told the tale, first the King frowned, then gradually the corners of his mouth began to twitch, his nose came down (as mine does when I laugh), his eyes twinkled, and, behold, burst into the merriest fit of irrepressible laughter, which rang through the woods and proclaimed him a jocund soul.

"Well met, cousin!" he cried, stepping up to me, clapping me upon the back, and laughing still. "You must forgive me if I was taken aback. A man doesn't expect to see double at this time of day, eh, Fritz?"

"I must pray pardon, sir, for my presumption," said I. "I trust he will not forfeit your majesty's favor."

"By heaven! you'll enjoy the king's countenance," he laughed.

"Can he say that? Hang me if Michael won't expose himself, if he tries to expose you."

"God save 'em both!" whispered Sapt as his mouth wrinkled into a smile.

But if things went well at Strelsau with Rudolph Rassendyll, now crowned as Rudolph the Fifth of Ruritania and the accepted lover of the Princess Flavia, Fortune did not smile on the other Rudolph at Zenda. For Black had had word from there that cleared for him the mystery of the coronation. Riding as fast as horses could lay feet to the ground, he seized poor Rudolph of Ruritania and held him prisoner. But then ensued a pretty pass.

"Aye, but he can't speak," roared Sapt in grim triumph. "We've got him. How can he denounce you without denouncing himself? This is not the King, because we have kidnapped the King and murdered his servant." Can he say that? Hang the most gallant gentleman that lives, the King is alive!"

But the most difficult situation for a loyal gentleman—and that was Rudolph Rassendyll—arose from the Princess Flavia. "I had to keep the princess devoted to me—and yet indifferent to me; I had to show affection for her—and not feel it. I had to make love for another; and that to a girl who—princess or no princess—was the most beautiful I had ever seen." How I succeeded in carrying out my programme will appear hereafter."

How they fell in love, he with her and she with him, is part of the story. And how, forgetting self, he rescued the King, and robbed himself of love and throne and almost life. When he had fallen, sorely wounded:

"Fritz," he called, "is the King still alive?"

"Aye, friend—dear friend," said he, tender as a woman, "thanks to

CLOWN CONVENTION IN SESSION EVERY MONTH

A SQUAD IN RINGLING BROS. AND BARNUM & BAILEY BATTALION OF CLOWNS

Election day falls on the first of every month in the "Clown Alley" portion of the great, new Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Shows Combined. Al Mafco, dean of all the clowns in clownland, calls the convention to order just after the big street parade has returned to the circus grounds.

It is then the "joke editor" is elected for the ensuing thirty days. It becomes the duty of this official to buy all the newspapers procurable and to read them religiously. Whenever he comes upon a topic which might serve for an up-to-date parody or humorous caricature he puts it aside. Every afternoon at 1 o'clock there is a meeting of what is known as the "sawdust senate." This is composed of a committee of 20 clowns selected from the entire army of jesters. The "editor" makes his report to this body and they discuss it and select those ideas which may be turned to account on the hippodrome track.

This is the secret of the down-to-the-minute performances of the sky-larkers. There is not a fad of dress, dance or unusual innovation which

STRIKE CALL IS IGNORED
COLUMBUS, O., July 15.—Despite discontent among employees of state institutions an attempt to call the steam engineers and firemen out on strike did not succeed. The men are asking for 50 cents an hour for an eight-hour day.

ONLY A PRIZE FIGHTER
Editor Times.

I have read so many letters in your paper about the war that I have concluded to try one myself. I had a brother who lived in Indiana. He enlisted and was killed in France. Two of my cousins were drafted in Kentucky and both were killed. Besides, I have many near friends who were in the army; some were killed and others crippled.

Now recently the papers have had a lot to say about Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey. Both are big, stout men and both clackers. I have read in the papers that Dempsey is 21 years old, weighs 200 and is a marvel of strength and science. If this is the case, how did he escape the draft board of Utah? It seems that actors and prize fighters are the favorites of the government. If you know the name of one prize fighter who died in France, please publish it. —Samuel Adams.

VAN WERT

ELECTRICITY RATES CUT AT VAN WERT

VAN WERT, July 15.—William E. Flowers, aged 17 years, who claims to be a son of Newman Flowers, of 138, Ohio street, Chicago, and James Glenn, aged 17, who registered as son of Elizabeth Glenn, of 695 North State street, Marion, have been sentenced to indeterminate terms in the Ohio Boys' Industrial School, near Lancaster. The lads were captured in Ohio City, where they forced entrance to three box cars on the Chicago Erie railroad, for the purpose of robbery. In each car they broke open boxes that contained canned pears. In court they complained that the pears were "no account" and voiced surprise that they were threatened with punishment for the offense. According to the information gathered by the officers both boys have become wanderers.

The Northwestern Ohio Light company, in accordance with the agreement made by it with the city for reducing the lighting rates in the city from a maximum of 13 cents a kilowatt hour to 12 cents a kilowatt hour has filed new rate schedule with the state utilities commission.

The reduction of one cent per kilowatt hour is made on all steps in the schedule and according to the state law governing such procedures is effective August 1.

Floyd Terry, an employee of the Cincinnati Northern shops, was severely scalded as he was passing engine No. 106 and an arch plug tube blew out, allowing hot steam and water to strike him.

The plug slipped out without warning and the force of the water and steam was so great that it knocked Terry down, scalding him on the face, arm and shoulder.

DELPHOS

BOY INJURED BY AN AIR GUN SHOT

DELPHOS, July 15.—A small son of John Nomine, living northwest of Delphos, had a painful, though not serious accident when a bullet from an air gun was imbedded in the index finger of his left hand. It appears that he was playing with the gun when it was accidentally discharged. He went to a physician who removed the bullet and dressed the injured finger.

Constable Sam Baxter placed under arrest Chnt Murphy of Frankfort, Ind., on a charge of non-support. Murphy was round by Constable Baxter in this city and was taken to Van Wert to answer the charge. By an agreement with his wife, the matter was satisfactorily settled and the court proceedings were dropped.

An unusual record was made by the Commercial bank of Delphos during the past year, as is shown by the financial statement of that institution, published in this issue. It is shown that the increase in deposits during the year is over $300,000. The deposits as shown by the statement of June, 1918, amounted to $942,577.25; the statement of June, 1919, shows deposits to the amount of $1,247,532.66.

He had been a sufferer from static rheumatism for ten years, but seemed no worse than usual when he retired Friday night.

ST. MARYS

STRAW STACKS ARE BURNED LOSS $75

ST. MARYS, July 14.—Two stacks of straw, one old and one new, were destroyed by fire Tuesday at the Frank P. Moler premises, southwest of St. Marys. The loss is estimated at between $50 and $75. The fire started when Mr. Moler threw a match down after lighting his pipe, the match igniting the straw and burning it to the ground. Mr. Moler and others were engaged in putting up the straw when the mishap occurred.

Fred Bruiport, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bruiport residing on the corner of Pear and Spring streets, met with a painful accident when he was crowded off the New Bremen road by an automobile.

Young Bruiport, riding a motorcycle was en route south on the New Bremen road.

When in the act of rounding a sharp bend in the road near the old C. W. Smith farm, an automobile coming from the south took the bend with a wide swing to opposite side of the road. The lad saw that he would have to either take the ditch or the auto, and chose the former. He struck on his right side and head. The automobile which was traveling at a good speed continued on without stopping to see how badly the boy was injured.

Fred Kurtz, Duchouquet township farmer, came near having his neck broken when struck by a wad of hay accidentally released by an automatic hayfork in the barn on his premises. His hurts are pronounced severe, although not necessarily dangerous.

Miss Rosa May Bowers, aged 16, of Richmond, Va., recently earned $15 in an unusual way. While out walking she saw a young wolf at the entrance of a den, crawled inside after him and captured him.

WAPAKONETA

T. & O. C. STARTS SUNDAY SCHEDULE

WAPAKONETA, July 15.—It has been rumored for some time that Sunday train service over the T. and O. C. railroad would be re-established, but locally people have taken the rumor as being another case in which the wish was father to the thought. However, now comes the fact that changes in this direction took effect Sunday, July 13.

Sunday morning a train left for the east at 7:01 o'clock, and another left in the afternoon at 2:10 o'clock. A train arrived from the east on Sunday mornings at 9:30 o'clock, but there was no trains from the east in the evenings. This will mean that Sunday trips to Russells Point will be one-way only. Folks will have to return some other way, Sunday evening, or remain overnight.

The angel of death extended his icy hands over the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bailey at Geyer Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and Allen Eugene, their only child, was carried away by death after an illness of three weeks with congestion of the brain.

Workmen were engaged last week in wrapping one of the boilers at the powerhouse of the Court House with magnesia blocks and asbestos. The work is being done for the purpose of heat retention, the old covering of bricks having proven inadequate for the purpose. The walls of the engine room have already been covered with a patent material to prevent the escaping of heat.

Some years ago there was a convert of the Precious Blood Sisters in the neighborhood of Minster, located at Egypt, says the Minster Post. The pious sisters have gone with their fervent and constant prayers have come to an end. The sacred convent buildings were transformed into farm building. Sad transformation!

A similar thing much pitied by the Catholic people is reported from Victoria, Mercer county. On the 17th of June the pure strains of the convert bell of the Precious Blood Sisters' convent were heard for the last time and the sisters left the old venerable convent which had existed for 63 years. The people there around were loath to see the sisters leave and do not like to miss the holy prayers of the pious virgins.

LILA LEE in "Puppy Love"
A Paramount Picture
AT THE FAUROT TODAY AND WEDNESDAY

IN THE PLAYHOUSES

Mock tragedy humor runs not through "Puppy Love," the new Paramount picture at the Faurot, which presents an amusing story of boy and girl love wherein the principal characters deport themselves with a serene gravity during the broken passage of their tender passion with irresistibly comic effect. Pretty Lila Lee shines brilliantly as the charming heroine whose fascinations urge her devoted swain to the verge of desperate deeds, and Harold Goodwin, as the ardent lover, although a trifle too immature for the cub operator role allotted him, overcomes the handicap of age gallantly and shares honors with the star.

Miss Lee shows signs of marked improvement in each new production where she takes the lead and her work in the present instance tends to fill further increase her popularity with the fans of filmdom. Her impersonation of romantic Gloria is replete with childish grace, delightfully natural and scores a distinct hit. The producers show good judgment in the selection of a cast, every member of which renders excellent service. The spinsters types are especially amusing. Emma Gordes' performances as Phyllis Winters being particularly worthy of mention, and the trials and tribulations of the fat boy, portrayed by Lincoln Stedman, offering much food for mirth.

The plot hangs by a slender thread, as might be expected in light comedy drama of this sort, but bright action, beautiful photography combine to hold its interest to the end. The camera offers charming outdoor views, the garden scenes being filmed with skill and accuracy. Artistic tinting, pretty long shots and effective lighting are in evidence throughout the entire five reels.

The added features are also of prime quality, embracing the Pathé News and "Squared," new comedy featuring Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew.

SHE GOES TO BEAR VALLEY.

Madge Kennedy is playing triumphant from the studios though not from her work, of course. She has gone to Bear Valley with a company of 25 to begin her new production. Clarence G. With Parachute to Boss
Job of Anchoring R-34

Major J. E. M. Pritchard
If Major Hugh Fuller hadn't hurried off to Boston when the R-34 wirelessed that she was in trouble and might have to make a landing near there, spectators at Mineola, Long Island, would have missed one of the most spectacular features of the arrival of the British dirigible. Major Fuller was to have been in charge of the landing, but with him away Major J. E. M. Pritchard decided that he ought to be on the ground. He got there by dropping 2,000 feet from the R-34 with a parachute and superintended the job. This unusual photograph shows Major Pritchard's parachute soon after it was released from the big airship.

Father Pays in Full For Girl's College Tuition

ALLIANCE, O., July 15.—Elmer Harrold, a Leetonia manufacturer, believes in paying for education at least what it costs. Today he sent a check for $300 to Mount Union College where his daughter graduated last month.

He explained that Mount charged her only $100 a year for tuition and fees "the usual amount" and he figured that it cost the institution $300 a year to educate her. His check therefore, included the $200 difference for a period of four years.

CINCINNATI, O., July 15.—It was learned today that seventeen men had been arrested early Sunday morning and two stills, used in the manufacture of "moonshine" whiskey had been raided and destroyed by government officials and city police on Central avenue in the heart of the foreign section. The officers ascertained that what was known as "white mule" was being sold in the Hungarian section. They trailed the peddlers of the illicit whiskey and located the places where they obtained their liquor. The raids were then made and the men arrested. All of them gave names that indicated they were of foreign extraction.

The new law has materially increased the work of the state banking department. Superintendent Phil S. Berg, head of the state banking department, played an important part in the preparation of the law, which codifies all the banking acts ever passed, eliminating provisions which have long been obsolete.

Because the act contains many new features, bankers throughout the country will watch with interest the effects of its operation. Ohio bankers feel sure that the beneficial results they expect will soon be in evidence after the measure has been given a satisfactory tryout.

The ditch code measure, fathered by Senator Thomas A. Berry of Allen county, became a law Friday without the governor's signature. It was the last of the 244 bills passed by the general assembly to become a law. It will go into active operation at the end of the 90-day referendum period. The ditch code bill is voluminous.

NEW GRAHAM LAW SURROUNDS BANKS WITH SAFEGUARDS

Statute Now Effective Called Most Progressive Legislation

COLUMBUS, July 14.—The new Graham law, giving the state bank superintendent greatly increased supervision over state and private banks, went into operation Friday.

This measure is said to be the most progressive and constructive piece of banking legislation ever enacted by any state. It passed the general assembly with but one vote dissenting.

The bank law is designed to surround banks with such safeguards that the interests of depositors will be protected more securely than ever before.

One reform brought about by the law is that it limits the use of the name "bank" to bona fide banking institutions. Under the old law any kind of a concern could use the name "bank." Now its use is restricted to genuine banks incorporated by the state.

The new law has materially increased the work of the state banking department. Superintendent Phil S. Berg, head of the state banking department, played an important part in the preparation of the law, which codifies all the banking acts ever passed, eliminating provisions which have long been obsolete.

Because the act contains many new features, bankers throughout the country will watch with interest the effects of its operation. Ohio bankers feel sure that the beneficial results they expect will soon be in evidence after the measure has been given a satisfactory tryout.

REPORTING MUCH BETTER HEALTH IN BRINNON HOME

Mrs. Brinnon Tells How Nerv-Worth Brought Happy Results to Her Husband.

Sufferers in local and neighborhood communities will read the following story of recovered health with keen interest. It came to the Urbana Nerv-Worth druggist, from a source that gives it credit:

Welsheimer & Butler—My husband was all run-down. Suffered from "that tired feeling" and was sleepless at night. Suffered greatly from heartburn and gas on his stomach. He was so terribly weak that he could hardly get around. He has taken one bottle of Nerv-Worth and feels like a log and is getting so much stronger. Nerv-Worth certainly has helped him and we were certainly surprised at its quick results. We are both enthusiastic in our praise of Nerv-Worth.

GIBSON MAKING CHANGES

Leonard's Manager Has Plans for the Coming Battle

Billy Gibson, manager of the world's lightweight champion, Benny Leonard, has made changes to suit himself and his men ticket regarding the weight at which the champion will enter the ring in the defense of his title. Gibson calmly announces that Benny Leonard will defend the lightweight championship at 135 pounds at 2 o'clock. "So you'll just have to forget that Joe Gans ever made 133 pounds ringside to meet Battling Nelson. That was all wrong, all wrong, according to Gibson."

The shrewd manager of the world's champion, Leonard, hopes to choke off the most dangerous contender he has, Lew Tendler, the Philadelphia southpaw boxer, by fixing the weight at 135 at 2 o'clock. Gibson is well aware that Tendler can make 130 pounds ringside and, under the strictest construction of the rules is a legitimate lightweight.

No one knows whether Tendler could defeat Leonard. They have never met. They never will either unless the Philadelphians pack on some more meat, for it would be ridiculous for him to weigh 130 or 132 ringside and let Leonard weigh in at 135 pounds at 2 o'clock. By the time Leonard entered the ring he would weigh close to 142 pounds, the limit of the welterweight class in America.

Billy Gibson may get away with his latest scheme. Then, again, he may not. If public opinion demands that Leonard weigh 133 at 3 o'clock, he'll just have to make it, that's all.

Gibson says that Leonard had to make 135 pounds for the tour in which he took the title from Freddie Welsh and that Welsh won the championship from Willie Ritchie in London at 125 pounds. And Mr. Gibson stops right there. But it is interesting to go back a bit to the great Joe Gans. If only to prove the wisdom of Mr. Gibson in knowing where to stop in his history.

Willie Ritchie weighed 133 pounds at 3 o'clock when he took the title on a foul in the sixteenth round from Ad Wolgast at Daly City, Cal., November 18, 1912. The Michigan wildcat won from Battling Nelson at 133 pounds, the referee stopping the bout in the fortieth round at Fort Richmond, Cal., on Washington's Birthday, 1910.

The entire ring world knows all about the weight made for the Gans-Nelson combats. For their clash at Goldfield, Nev., September 3, 1906, both men weighed in twice, each time at 133 pounds. The second weighing was ringside. And when Nelson stopped Gans at Colma, Cal., September 8, 1908, both boxers made 133 pounds. Making 133 pounds ringside at Goldfield so appalled Gans' strength that he rapidly faded away and died of tuberculosis.

But Mr. Gibson is going to see that Benny Leonard is never going to die of tuberculosis as the result of making weight. He intends to switch the weight around to suit the champion. Whether he succeeds or not, none can tell. It might be that Leonard will be compelled to enter the welterweight class.

JACK IS SECOND DEMPSEY CHAMP

Original of the Name Was Boss Until He Met Fitz

For the second time in the history of pugilism, the name of Jack Dempsey is borne by a champion.

The first Jack Dempsey, the non-parcel, was born "way back in 1882, in County Kildare, Ireland. He claimed the middleweight title in 1884, and defeated George Fulljames in July 30 in his first championship match. From then on he whipped the best men of his day.

He knocked out Jack Fogarty, February 3, 1886. The next month he won his first match with George La Blanch in 18 rounds.

He knocked out Johnny Fogarty the following year on December 13, in 45 rounds. Then came the famous match in which he was knocked out by George La Blanche in San Francisco. La Blanche using that much discussed pivot blow that was declared a foul. This battle took place on August 27, 1889, and lasted 32 rounds. Young Mitchell afterward knocked out La Blanche and Dempsey again became the recognized champion.

The non-parcel lost his crown to Bob Fitzsimmons in 18 rounds at New Orleans January 14, 1891.

CONSTANS AND WAGNER DENY CONNECTION WITH AKRON TEAM

Pittsburgh Papers Say Wagner Knows Nothing of the Rubber City Project

According to Pittsburgh newspapers the story that Hans Wagner, old baseball star, and Les Constans of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club are to back a $600,000 baseball team in Akron next year, is untrue. Charles Skelley and Frank Doyle were authorities for this statement Thursday.

The Pittsburgh Post makes light of Skelley's story under a heading entitled "Akron's Baseball Blimp Drags Hans and Les Off Feet." And a hanger as follows: "Imaginative Yarn about Wagner Managing Association Team in Rubber City next year, $200,000 Stadium and all, has no basis of fact," says Constans.

The post story is by a writer named "Gibby." This is his tale:

"No, I really couldn't say that Hans had come to an understanding with them—certainly he couldn't invest in the proposition. But hunting a Class AA franchise is not best done with a brass band, and there seems to be a lot of superlative degrees and big figures talked."

A story from Akron implicated a certain John Henry—or Peter—Wagner, familiarly famous as Hans, Honus, "The Dutchman" and other sporting sobriquets, and Les Constans. Les refused to be hoisted by the

Endicott New Half Mile Mark

EDMONTON, Alberta, July 15.—(Special)—Wild Bill Endicott, the famous Canadian auto racer, established a record for half mile track at the Edmonton fair Saturday, making ten laps of a half-mile each in five minutes and four seconds. He had John Phillip Sousa, the bandmaster, as passenger. The fair association presented the driver with a prize of $500 as a reward for making the new record, and John Phillip Sousa presented him with an American flag set in diamonds and rubies.

Dane Rumor Speaks

CHICAGO, July 15.—Rumors of a big baseball trade to bring an out-fielder to the Chicago Cubs were current here today. They were unverified. Davy Robertson and Buck Herzog were mentioned, with possibly Mann, Merkle and a pitcher as the Cub offerings.

It Started Early

Three members of the Phillies kicked on the appointment of Gavy Cravath as manager. Hurley Packard drew a fine of $200 from President Baker and Pitcher Woodward received one of $100. Catcher Forest Cady took a hard jolt for his kick, $100 fine and ten days' notice or release.

ELECTRICIAN STRIKE MAY BE ADJUSTED THIS AFTERNOON

Chamber of Commerce Making Effort to Bring About Agreement

O. E. LINEMEN TO MEET

Union Men From Other Points on System Due
Here Tonight

Striking electrical workers will confer with their respective employers at a meeting to be held late this afternoon in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce. The local Chamber of Commerce is making every effort to effect an agreement between the electrical workers and their employers, and the linemen and the Ohio Electric company. Up to today, however, these efforts have proved futile.

It is anticipated at this afternoon's meeting, a settlement will be made between electrical contractors and their striking employees. The strikers are asking an increase to bring their pay up to 75 cents an hour, and a recognition of the union. Just what the employers have in mind's relative to the meeting this afternoon is not known.

According to information received, this afternoon from Raymond Cleary, of Chicago, representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, who is in Lima in behalf of the strikers, a committee of linemen, employees of the Ohio Electric company, from Zanesville and Newark, will arrive in Lima this evening to confer with him regarding the strike situation.

He also stated the Springfield and Dayton workers are expected to strike either this evening or tomorrow morning. Officials of the company, today stated, traffic has not been interrupted, despite the fact that heavy storms have prevailed throughout this section of the state in the past few days.

Many Injured When Bolt Hits A Street Car

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 15.—Twenty-five persons were injured, several probably fatally, when lightning struck a crowded Hamilton avenue street car at Fifth and Wood streets in the center of the downtown district during a severe electrical storm this afternoon. J. T. Hoffmann, 50, motorman, was severely burned when the lightning, which struck the trolley wire came down into the car and exploded the controller. A number of women and children were trampled in a panic which followed.

HEAVY RAIN STOPS HEAT FOR AWHILE

A regular "goose drowner" of a rain drove everyone in down-town streets to cover shortly after 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and it is needless to say that the heavy downpour came as a relief to the oppressive, terrific heat of several days' duration. The rain cooled off the air and keeping up for some time was received as a blessing, even if a few straw hats and suns were damaged by the downpour.

For days the thermometer has been flirting with the 100 mark and along with the high temperature the humidity of the atmosphere made things about as unpleasant as could be.

The rain Tuesday afternoon furnished at least temporary respite from the long run of hot days.

Wilson May Go On Tour Soon

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Intimations that the senate foreign relations committee might not arrange for early conference with President Wilson for discussion of the peace treaty and the league of nations covenant led to the suggestion today that Mr. Wilson might begin his tour of the country sooner than he had planned.

Fixing of the itinerary for the "swing around the circle" was understood to have been delayed to await completion of the committee's program in order that there might be no conflict. The committee met again today and, laying aside temporarily the question of asking for more information began a reading of the official text of the treaty submitted by the president.

OFFICIAL TEXT OF HIGH COURT RULING AGAINST SOCIALISTS

Entire Supreme Bench Agrees Upon Decision Made

BOARD IS SUSTAINED

Commissioners Have Absolute Control of Use of Memorial Hall

Prosecuting Attorney, John Cable, this morning received the written opinion handed down by the supreme court in the case of the local socialists against county commissioners. Some time ago, local socialists wanted the use of Memorial hall for the purpose of a lecture to be given supposedly by Eugene V. Debs. County commissioners refused the request.

The common pleas court granted the socialists the use of the hall, and that judgment was affirmed by the court of appeals. Supreme court, however, reversed the judgment.

Following is the opinion received by Prosecutor Cable:

By the court:

The county commissioners of Allen county denied the application presented by relator for the use of the Memorial hall at Lima on January 22nd, 1919, for the "purpose of delivering and hearing a public speech."

The common pleas court upon application of relator granted a writ of mandamus requiring the commissioners to grant relator the use of said Memorial hall on the date stated, and that judgment and order was affirmed by the court of appeals.

By the provisions of Sections 2068, General Code, the supervision and control of such county memorial building, created to the provisions of Section 3059, General Code, is vested in the board of county commissioners. It is there provided that "they may permit the occupancy and use of the memorial building, or any part thereof, upon such terms as they deem proper." Authority to control the occupancy and use of such building or any part thereof is thereby lodged in the county commissioners, and a discretion is thereby vested in such board. The record in this case discloses no abuse of that discretion, nor does it disclose that the relator has been deprived of any right guaranteed to a citizen by the constitution of the state or of the United States, and therefore no case is made justifying the issuance of the extraordinary writ of mandamus. The courts will not usurp functions which by law are vested in administrative bodies.

Judgment reversed.

The building at present contains approximately 2400 feet of floor space. It is understood the concern yesterday intimated the place is not large enough and several hundred feet more floor space will be added.

Today, workmen are making minor repairs on the building, and the machinery is expected to arrive in Lima within the next few days.

As soon as this has been installed, operation will commence. It is estimated the plant will be running within two weeks. While no definite information concerning the number to be employed has been given out, it is understood, more than 300 persons will be required.

Levinsky Brothers have at present six other factories in Michigan, and the one here, will be the fifth in this state.

Motor Buses to Replace Street Cars in Toledo

TOLEDO, O., July 15.—With the Toledo Railways & Electric Light company ordered to vacate the streets here July 30, Mayor Schreiber and the council are considering a proposal to replace the street cars with motor buses. A company has offered to promote a $2,000,000 corporation to furnish street transportation.

The rail-light was ordered off the streets when it raised the fare from five cents and one cent for a transfer to six cents and two cents for a transfer.

The street car company has announced it is preparing to comply with the order, which compels removals of tracks from the streets.

Lima will have a new cigar factory to be situated on the northwest corner of Kirby and Main streets, which will be an extensive industry, according to information received this morning from authentic source.

FEDERAL RULES AS TO USE OR SALE OF INTOXICANTS

Regulations in regard to the use of alcoholic beverages and intoxicating liquors have been received by H. B. Mowry, internal revenue collector, from the treasury department, Washington. Among the most important ruling is that physicians may prescribe wines and liquors for internal use, or alcohol for external use, but in every such case prescription must be duplicate, signed by physician and with the person's full name and address.

Druggists may not fill out the prescriptions if they think or know that the patient is getting the liquor illegally, or getting more than the prescribed amount, by going to various physicians. They should carry in a separate file a record of each prescription filled, and once a month transmit to the collector of internal revenue a list showing the names of the physicians.

Wholesale or retail liquor dealers having stock or wines on hand may sell to pharmacists holding permits, until their present supplies are exhausted. This pertains to wholesale or liquor dealers who are licensed druggists or pharmacists.

Those desiring information as to the prohibition regulations may obtain the same from the local income collector, postoffice building, or by writing either the attorney general or the district U. S. attorney.

At the Rhoda Royal circus there are equestrians and bareback riders, menage and high school horsemen and women and a bunch of cowboys and Indians who give exhibitions of bucking horse riding and lariat spinning together with roping and Indian folk songs and war dances and other features of the far West. The Water Circus is another big favorite and his little enclosure was crowded, all evening long with seemingly hypnotized spectators.
